Hayward Lumber Becomes First SLO Green Build Redwood Member

San Luis Obispo, CA – September 2009. Dedicated to leading the journey in environmental stewardship, Hayward Lumber is doing just that by becoming the first SLO Green Build Redwood Member; the highest level of membership the non-profit offers.

At this level of membership, Hayward Lumber – who is committed to sustainable growth and helping its customers make smart decisions in their building materials – is helping SLO Green Build move their vision of “every building a green building” closer to fruition.

“SLO Green Build is the perfect organization for us to further our journey of environmental stewardship,” explained Paul Rodriguez, Central Market Manager for Hayward Lumber. “We are proud to be SLO Green Build’s first Redwood member and I am personally looking forward to being a part of the organization that will make green building the way everyone builds in the future on the central coast.”

Nationally recognized for bringing green building materials to the markets they serve, Hayward Lumber is used to being first in a lot that they do – from becoming the first lumberyard in the nation to stock Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) lumber in 1999, and building the first Gold LEED certified truss manufacturing plant in the United States in 2003.
