

Learn Build Save

The Learn Build Save lecture series is an ongoing series of public educational workshops held quarterly in various locations throughout SLO County, featuring topics that are directly relevant to the Central Coast's sustainably-minded building professionals and homeowners.

SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITIES

CREATING A SUSTAINABLE ENVIRONMENT TO LIVE IN

Join us for a discussion of sustainable communities, what they are, how they are created, what they need to succeed, and the steps needed to bring sustainability to the mainstream. Ken Haggard from the SLO Sustainability Group, and Adrienne Greve from Cal Poly's City and Regional Planning Department will share their experiences of working toward sustainability both locally and around the world, and describe the potential for sustainable living in SLO County.

For this lecture, the residents of the sustainability minded Tierra Nueva Cohousing community in Oceano are opening up their home and welcoming in the community to see this local example of intentional community.

Wednesday November 9, 2011 6:00 – 8:00 PM

- Socializing and appetizers from 5:00 - 6:00 PM
- Tour of Tierra Nueva from 6:00 - 6:30 PM
- Lecture from 6:30-8:00 PM

Located at the Tierra Nueva Cohousing Common House

- 1750 Tierra Nueva Lane, Oceano, CA 93445
- Street parking is available directly adjacent to the community
- Handicapped parking available inside the community

Everyone is welcome to attend

$5 suggested donation